

On the Lighter Side

Mom: Rahul, why are you crying?

Rahul: I have hurt my finger.

Mom: When did you do that?

Rahul: Half an hour ago.

Mom: But, I didn't hear you crying then.

Rahul: I didn't, because I thought you were out.

Mom: I have just looked in the mirror and noticed that I have two grey hairs!

Neetu: Why's that, mummy?

Mom: (seizing the change): Because you are such a bad daughter to me, I guess.

Neetu: Gosh, Mom, you must have been awful to Grandma. She's absolutely grey.

Money is like the new year resolution, easier made than kept. Promises are like babies, easy to make and tough to deliver.

On a mountain climbing expedition, the guide warned the tourists, "Be especially careful not to fall here – It's a dangerous place. But if you do fall, "he added nonchalantly, "remember to look to the right – the view is extraordinary!"

Woman: Doctor, I am having such a problem, I forget everything immediately.

Doctor: Since when have you had this problem?

Woman: Which problem?

A man (to his boss): Sir, my wife has asked for my promotion.

Boss: Okay, I'll ask my wife and let you know tomorrow.

Jaspal: When is your birthday, Rao?

Rao: August 24.

Jaspal: What year?

Rao: Every year.

Customer: (walking into a stationery store) Have you got invisible ink?

Saleman: Certainly sir, what colour?

Y's CRACK

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF
Y's MEN's CLUB, OF ANNA NAGAR

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

00 has replaced 99 in the new millennium. We will take a few seconds to thank God Almighty for all his blessings during the last year and given us a chance to see the dawn of millennium. None of us will be living to see the next millennium. As an optimist, I do not see as to why we cannot look forward at least to live up to the age of 100, when a generic revolution is taking place with the introduction of Spirulina and Vitamin E by genuine classes and Health Clubs are at every nook and corner along with Fast Food joints, both veg and non-veg. Eat and be merry seems to be order of the day. Home delivery is there for every damn thing. A few take the advice of the doctor to go for every morning walks under compulsion. In good old days, as the Bible says, our forefathers like Moses,

Abraham & David lived for hundreds of years. So, why don't we take an effort to live long by selecting the good things in life, as our fore-fathers did?

An error had crept in the editorial of Dec Y's Crack. The 21st Century should be read as 20th Centure. See you in February.
